Chairman's Message

In 2015, the global economic condition performed below expectations, mainly due to a downturn in the global economy. The Directorate-General of Budget, Accounting, Statistics (DGBAS), Executive Yuan, revised down their economic growth forecasts, and the financial services industry along with their clients were faced with a harsher external environment. More heartbreaking is that Taiwan was faced with the largest public safety disaster and victims since the 921 Earthquake with the Formosa Fun Coast dust explosion injuring many young victims with bright futures. Thus, we believe that transitions should not only be for our own profitability and survival, but we need to take on the mantle of social responsibility not only for ourselves, but for society as a whole, building a more beautiful, safer, living environment.

What can we do for the next generation?

If each corporation can create a heritage of sustainable value, that is the best legacy and treasure that we can leave to our next generation. SinoPac hopes that we can put in practice the four core values of our Company of "Happy customers, content shareholders, public respect, and proud employees". Then, our Company can enable cross-generational wealth for our customers, and create sustainable value.

Despite the media labeling Taiwan as a global center for fraud, our colleagues in 2015 successfully stopped 29 bank fraud cases with a total value of NT$18.85 million, protecting the assets of our customers. Most of these assets are pensions funds of our customers, savings from a lifetime of work. For each fraud case that we stop, we may save a family from economic suffering.

Moreover, we attempt to use the power of our Company to empower different groups towards a new direction in life, enabling friends in need to regain dignity in life. For example, for us to create new jobs for the young victims from the Formosa Fun Coast dust explosion is not difficult, but more importantly is how to support the victims in their long road to recovery to develop a moral path and prepare for an appropriate career. In our bank, we initiated psychological training for volunteers, in preparation for these youths, beyond offering job opportunities. As long as we continue to support and care for groups in need, opportunities arise that may enable victims to move on past the pain and once again become a self-reliant, contributing member of society.

Of course, with corporate policies that promote happiness, employees can then have the heart to contribute to their communities. To promote a happy work environment, in 2015 we started a happy work environment special project for our banking subsidiary, to increase engagement between colleagues and enable them to actively demonstrate their professionalism and caring nature. In 2016, a new flextime policy is in the planning stages, enabling colleagues to adjust their work hours or days depending on their own needs. Rather than accepting leave without pay, employees can better achieve a work-family balance. We hope to expand these policies from banking towards all subsidiaries of the holding company.

Bank SinoPac is also one of the earliest privately-owned banks to establish unions, enabling regular and ad-hoc communications between capital and labor on relevant topics. Both sides have union agreements in place that secures the rights of employees to work. SinoPac Securities is also the first securities firm in the industry to establish a union.

Facing climate change, in 2015, we introduced a paperless conference system, and externally have actively encouraged clients to use electronic bill statements and decrease the use of paper. We have also supported various environmental companies in raising funds and in 2015 provided corporations and families over NT$2.4 billion in solar power, optical equipment financing.

In addition, we have combined finance and local living by providing local temples throughout Taiwan an ability to use ATM machines as a payment tool for lighting lanterns that symbolizes a way to pacify the Gods. Through our "Banking is Simple" concept, we utilize our fintech resources and enable simplicity in local traditions and beliefs.

SinoPac Holdings takes a comprehensive view towards CSR. In corporate governance, we continue to strengthen board operations, information transparency, and the independent operations of our compensation and audit committees in 2015. At the same time, we strongly execute legal and compliance training throughout all subsidiaries, including the integration of the "Equator Principles" framework in our credit policies and actively push for the adoption of the "Stewardship Principles for Institutional Investors". We aim to have the community and the public understand that SinoPac is not only a financial institution, but through our actions, demonstrate that we are a responsible corporate citizen that takes seriously our responsibility to society.

This year, we shall remain committed to our vision in becoming a Company that achieves "happy customers, content shareholders, public respect, and proud employees". We empathize with our stakeholders and put ourselves in our stakeholders' shoes. In this transition phase, we aim to build a happy work environment for our employees, consider client needs, put efforts in innovation, and develop products and services that continue to create value both domestically and abroad, with the aim in becoming the most flexible financial services brand across Greater China.

Distinguishing Stakeholders

In the 2014 CSR report issued by SinoPac Holdings (the first CSR report issued by SinoPac Holdings), we first distinguished our stakeholders in a clear and identifiable manner. Through collecting a list of stakeholders by the holding company, banking, securities, leasing, investment trust, and venture capital subsidiaries (5 in total), we are able to distinguish groups of personnel that are relevant stakeholders. Subsequently, with representatives of the holding company and the five subsidiaries, and discussions with the CSR project team, we agreed on a list of eight categories of stakeholders.

Each year, SinoPac Holdings will evaluate our categories of stakeholders and adjust accordingly. In 2015, the CSR promotion and drafting team reduced this list from eight to seven categories, mainly combining academic institutions to the community/NPO/NGO category. The distinguished stakeholders for the 2015 report are employees, customers, shareholders (investors), suppliers, media, community/NPO/NGO, and regulatory agencies. SinoPac Holdings establishes dedicated channels of communication for each stakeholder category, in an effort to ensure the major topics and requirements of each stakeholder is understood.

Combined, the results of these performance assessments are reflected in their annual bonuses.

To achieve smooth and effective communication between the Company and colleagues, Bank SinoPac colleagues in accordance with the Labor Union Act, established the Bank SinoPac Union. Representatives between the Company and the Union regularly or on an ad-hoc basis communicate on topics relating to labor issues. On August 16, 2011, a collective agreement was signed, focused on the right to work for members. On November 10, 2014, a new collective agreement was signed, adding in clauses of legal support for colleagues that face lawsuits due to work-related causes. SinoPac Securities is the first securities firm to establish a union.

Developing Wealth in the World

The Internet has completely changed the lifestyles of people today. With only one finger on a mobile phone, we can accomplish many daily tasks from food, clothing, accommodation, and transportation.

SinoPac emphasizes a new concept of "Banking is Simple." "Banking is Simple" brings to people a simpler life, which includes SinoPac's commitment to new product innovations, and financial services, combined with the new pattern of interaction with people's lifestyles.

ATM machines are quite prevalent in Taiwan, located on street corners and in convenience stores. Similarly, "Temples", a representative of the Taiwanese beliefs in higher powers are also prevalent, possibly with one in a green mountainside, in the busy city center, or in an old neighborhood.

Initially, there are no overlap between ATMs and temples. However, in 2015, SinoPac combined finance with lifestyles to break traditions, and introduced ATMs into well-known temples across the country.

Believers can light lanterns and pacify the "Taisui" using ATM functionality. SinoPac also redesigned printed statements, and on the back of the statements provide fortunes. Bank SinoPac's electronic banking division played an important role in the development of the Temple ATM product and services. The electronic banking division and their colleagues traveled throughout Taiwan, jointly with the branch managers, entering temples and partnering with associations that have local culture and color.

One of our colleagues, nicknamed "the little prince of temples", grew up in a temple household, and deeply understands the cash flow and treasury needs of temples. Another colleague, worked at the two largest foreign businesses in Taiwan, with English ability stronger than Chinese. However, to develop business, the colleague proactively learned the Taiwanese language.

Another branch manager, despite having a different belief system, still worked hard with their team.

Each temple-based ATM has a customized design.

Diversified functionality combining technology with folk beliefs, integrating traditional prayers of lighting lanterns and pacifying the "Taisui", becomes a closer part of life.

In the digital age, folk beliefs can also be completed using simple finance.

As we near the Digital Bank 3.0 era, and the rise of virtual channels, only the concept of "Banking is Simple ", connecting with the world and letting the client have intuitive, simple to use, financial services and products, then will simple finance create larger wealth.

According to the internal "operating rules for procurement procedure management", all procurement must establish a complete purchasing, procurement, delivery, verification system, with "separate levels of management responsibility" and authority, with prior approval by managers.

Also, for standard equipment purchasing, an annual contract bid process is preferred and through this system should be able to achieve a price advantage, higher specifications, and flexible delivery times. Internal auditing units and regulators will regularly audit the processes, and will correct, review, and suggest improvements as needed.

2. Auditing suppliers for CSR

SinoPac takes the approach for a cooperative relationship with our suppliers. In addition to compliance management and policies, we also require suppliers to fulfill their social responsibility. Expected in 2016, regular suppliers and major suppliers with our Company shall sign an employee human rights statement, and in each year's supplier audit add items on Labor Standards Law, social negative impact, and other evaluation items. The audit aim is to ensure compliance with labor laws, workplace health and safety, and that there is no forced labor, bribery, anti-monopoly, fraud, and other negative activities. We will also perform ad-hoc checks at our suppliers' place of business, and we will establish long-term partnership relationships with quality suppliers. For non-compliance suppliers, we will cancel their supplier approvals.

Green Operations

The green revolution is a global trend. Within our organization, we have implemented plans for energy saving equipment, with each buildings' lights replaced with LED lighting, and promoted best practices in using energy. In addition to energy optimization in banking building server room equipment and active management, we also target energy usage, lighting, and air conditioning equipment at our branch locations in implementing energy saving plans, regularly inspecting and replacing wasteful energy equipment.

1. Strengthen promotion and change in the energy usage habits of users.

- (1) Adjust demand and appropriate equipment usage according to seasons and holidays.
- (2) Increase the temperature of ice water equipment by 1~2 degrees.
- (3) Increase the cooling tower temperatures by 1~3 degrees.
- (4) Enforce internal temperatures at 26 degrees.
- (5) Turn off non-essential equipment, such as lighting, water coolers, during nighttime.

After these energy saving adjustments, visible improvements in our energy usage have occurred. With the 129 branch locations of Bank SinoPac as an example, the total energy usage of 2015 versus 2014 decreased by 350,000 kwh, decreasing carbon emissions by 180,156 KgCo2e. In 2016, we will implement a full inspection and review of the power factor at each branch, and improve our energy efficiency.

2. Long term promotion of recycling and automation of operational processes

SinoPac Holdings and its subsidiaries are part of the financial services industry. We have promoted recycling activities and automation of operational processes. Subsidiary, SinoPac Securities have initiated paper saving initiatives, promoting repeated usage of envelopes between headquarters and branch offices, usage of double-sided printing, usage of recycled paper towels, prohibited usage of paper cups in internal meetings, and paperless transmission of corporate memos. In recycling, we sort our garbage, recycle paper, and recycle batteries. Concurrently, every six months, for all our business locations we perform interior CO2 concentration testing, lighting inspections, and test whether measurements are within standards. In support of our carbon reduction policy, our branch offices are engaged in a LED lighting replacement program. Using the Xinchuang branch as an example, we effectively achieved energy savings of 3~5%. In 2016, we will continue to replace lighting at our branch locations. Also, we will continue to hold energy saving competitions, controlling office air conditioning temperatures, and strengthen video conferencing systems to replace the transportation needs of colleagues. Each of these initiatives can effectively save energy and lower CO2 emissions.
